Research for Equity in Higher Education

Dedicated to the creation and dissemination of rigorous and timely research, the Pell Institute for the Study of Opportunity in Higher Education works to encourage policymakers, educators, and the public to address systemic equity issues in postsecondary education.

Kris Hatcher EdD is a first-generation college student and former Pell Grant recipient who has worked in various higher education roles for over 17 years. Kris completed his undergraduate studies at Florida State University and earned a Master's of Business Administration from Keiser University in 2009. He has been a Certified Financial Aid Administrator since 2019 and has served in several Florida Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators board positions. His dissertation "Large Rocks and Unwritten Rules: The Case of Financial Aid Fee Implementation at Florida's State Colleges" was successfully defended in February of 2022. Currently, Kris is the Director of TRIO Programs (UB, EOC, & SSS) at Gulf Coast State College in Panama City, Florida. He has also recently taught online as an adjunct at the graduate and undergraduate levels. His beautiful wife, Katie, works in the medical field, and they have two wonderful children named Jackson and Julia.
